On the "Fountain" by Marcel Duchamp

March 2007

Lyrics:

Excuse me, you must be taking a taking a. taking a taking a I was taking a taking a, I'm just taking a taking a, I was taking a taking a.

You must be taking the taking the, cos we're making a making a fuss over you yes a fuss over you.
Creating creating, misplacing misplacing, breaking
breaking, shaking shaking.
You must be pranking pranking you got us thanking thanking to get a good look at you yes a good look at you.

Pristine clean, no sign of urine, aspires too become a public loo.
A pale shade of cream, left home in 17, now fixed to a wall and collects what falls.
Just another lost urinal, escaped from its title.
Excuse me, i was having a having a, having a having a,
I'm just having a having a you were having a having a,
I'm just having a having a having a.
You must be having having a laugh, taking the taking
the out of the avant garde.

Creating creating, misplacing misplacing, breaking
breaking, shaking shaking.
You must be having a having a giggle, with your attack, with a piece of piddle.
a ready made!
